Gentlemen,

Isn't it about time to stop this raping of Microsoft by those other large corporations who seek only to get money for their lawyers and their boards of directors from Microsoft Corp.? . If people are so ignorant they don't know how to avoid using the Microsoft net browser, then they have no business trying to operate a computer...surely the directors of Netscape, Oracle and the other perpetrators of this idiocy are smarter than that! This has gone on far too long. The idea that somehow there is an illegal "monopoly" is patently ludicrous. These companies just found a good way to harass their major competitor without having to spend a dime of their own money...just hang it on the taxpayers of America instead, right???

It's time to get off Microsoft's back (and an apology wouldn't hurt!)
